ALEXIS ALBRO

ALEXIS ALBRO.

I am a survivor turned founder of Survivor Rising, a survivor-centered business that provides trauma-informed consulting, speaking, and advocacy services.

I am currently looking to connect with universities and organizations looking for an upcoming event speaker, that value motivational and educational survivor stories directly from the survivor.

For the last 2 years, I've had the humbling privilege of speaking to over a two thousand students, employees, detectives, medical providers and military members on the topic of: my Survivor Story, and sexual assault prevention and healing.

What if the cycle of harm could be disrupted by healing? What if it was as easy as just believing sexual assault survivors at the start? What if sexual assault and violence could be prevented with trauma-informed support systems? What if that would be all we would need for sustainable healing?

What if we took the time to listen to survivors in hopes of one day creating a more healed and less hurt world? I'll go first. I'm a survivor of sexual assault and here is my story.
